Rapid 'Ōhi'a Death (ROD)

What you can do to help prevent the spread of the disease:

1. Don't move 'Ōhi'a. Do not move the 'Ōhi'a wood, firewood, or posts, especially from an area known to have ROD. If you don't know where the wood is from, don't move it.
2. Don't transfer 'Ōhi'a Inter-island. Comply with the new quarantine rule to help prevent ROD from spreading. Don't move 'Ōhi'a plants, wood, or other 'Ōhi'a plant parts inter-island without a permit.
3. Clean your tools. Use only these proven cleaning methods. Other methods have been tested and they don't kill the fungus. Tools used for cutting 'Ōhi'a trees (especially infected ones) should be cleaned with 70% rubbing alcohol.
4. Clean your gear. Clean your shoes and clothing. Decontaminate shoes by dipping them in 70% rubbing alcohol to kill the ROD fungus. Other gear can also be sprayed with 70% rubbing alcohol. Wash clothing in hot water and detergent.
5. Wash your vehicle. Wash the tires and undercarriage of your vehicles with detergent and remove all soil or mud, especially after traveling from an area with ROD and/or if you have traveled off-road.

National Pain Strategy

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' (HHS) Office of the Assistant Secretary of Health has released a National Pain Strategy. It outlines the Federal government's first coordinated plan for reducing the burden of chronic pain that affects millions of Americans, and is a roadmap toward achieving a system of care in which all people receive appropriate, high-quality, evidence-based care for pain.

The strategy outlines steps to improve provider education on pain management practices and overcome barriers to improve the quality of pain care for vulnerable, stigmatized, and underserved Americans. Visit http://iprcc.nih.gov/National\_Pain\_Strategy/NPS\_Main.htm for details and to view the strategy.

On another note, your Hawai'i State Legislature is working on SB2392 SD2 HD2. This bill relates to pain management and the prevention of opioid addiction and overdoses. It has crossed over from the Senate to the House, and is currently referred to the Finance Committee.
