A BILL FOR AN ACT

RELATING TO AFFIRMATIVE CONSENT.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII:

SECTION 1. The legislature finds that while Congress has enacted several historic and significant federal laws to address sex-based discrimination and violence against women and girls, including Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, renamed the Patsy Takemoto Mink Equal Opportunity in Education Act in 2002 in recognition of the late United States Representative Patsy Mink's tireless efforts regarding Title IX, and the more recent Violence Against Women Act, sexual violence is prevalent on college campuses. Nationally, one in five women is sexually assaulted while in college. Approximately one-third of these sexual assaults are perpetrated on women who are first-year students between the ages of seventeen and nineteen. Also, women aged sixteen to twenty-four are at the highest risk for experiencing abuse by an intimate partner.

The legislature concludes that violence against women is a continuing problem that must be addressed. Ending campus sexual violence is a combined endeavor of effective response and intervention, awareness education to change attitudes and behaviors, and clear policies that do not tolerate such conduct.

The legislature acknowledges that the University of Hawaii is committed to maintaining and promoting safe, respectful campus environments that are free from discrimination, harassment, and sexual violence. The University of Hawaii board of regents recently adopted an executive policy concerning sexual harassment, sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking that requires the various campuses to implement comprehensive education and prevention programs, information and assistance for individuals who report alleged sexual harassment and sexual violence, prompt and equitable complaint procedures, information for respondents and complainants about their rights, and corrective action to prevent and end incidents of harassment and sexual violence.

The policy also provides a comprehensive definition of affirmative consent.

The purpose of this Act is to provide for a review of the university's policy.
